In addition to the opportunity to advertise alongside relevant features and breaking industry news, Logistics News ME also supports commercial clients through a number of exclusive editorial opportunities.

YOUR OWN LOGISTICS NEWS ME COVER

We understand the need for companies to maximise their exposure in print and package their marketing messages in new and original ways. That is why Logistics News ME offers the opportunity for your advert to wrap the magazine cover, either as a “false cover” or belly band. These prime positions come with an agreed number of advertorial pages within the magazine, created in close collaboration with our editorial and creative team and designed to run alongside the industry analysis and exclusive interviews that make up each issue of Logistics News ME.

The accompanying advertorial within the magazine could profile a senior executive from the company, a new initiative, or simply your company’s unique story of growth, from inception to your current standing. This is one of the most prestigious and prominent positions we offer our commercial partners and we take you through each step to ensure the finished product is in line with the design and style of the magazine, while achieving your marketing goals.

CASE STUDY

Do you have a new facility, initiative, or way of working that is different to anything the logistics industry has seen in the past? The Logistics News ME Case Study is the ideal way to showcase your innovation to the rest of the industry. Through interviews, infographics and images, our editorial team can profile your company’s latest achievements in the magazine over a two page spread.

VIP INTERVIEW

Exclusive interviews with the industry’s top executives are some of our most in demand content. If you wish to put your most senior leader in the hot-seat as part of a commercial package with the magazine, we will conduct an interview and photoshoot at your premises and publish in the magazine in our interview pages.

SUPPLIER NEWS

Logistics is a fast paced and high value industry with many innovations, launches, and appointments. We invite our commercial partners to keep the editorial team up to date on their latest company news for inclusion in the Supplier News pages. Each month, the magazine carries up to eight supplier news stories, announcing the biggest news from across the industry. To have your company news considered for inclusion, contact the editorial team with a press release and high-res image.
